MESSAGE

It is heartening to learn that Bharatiya Vidya Bhawan is conducting a Workshop on Sanskrit and Technical Education. The theme “Towards Paradigm Shift from Interpretation Phase to Innovation Phase” is most relevant in today’s world driven by technology.

Sanskrit as an ancient language is a treasure trove of knowledge. The glorious heritage of Sanskrit covers a wide gamut of subjects from religion and spirituality, mathematics, astronomy, economy, management, environment, architecture, commerce, medicine, engineering to art and culture and many more. The vastness and ideological expanse of inclusivity of the language is beautifully expressed in the words – “आ नो भद्राः क्रतवो यन्तु विश्वतः” (May noble thoughts come to us from every direction in the Universe).

The 21st century is an age of technology and innovation. Nations and societies that innovate will lead the world in the realm of thoughts and action. We must popularize learning through Sanskrit – particularly for our younger generations.

I am sure that the Workshop will pave the way to shift from interpretation to innovation in teaching and learning through Sanskrit language. May the Workshop succeed in attaining its objectives.

Best wishes for all success of the Workshop.
